NOAA seeks input on the administration's goal to conserve 30 percent of lands and waters by 2030

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) is seeking input on advancing America the Beautiful and guiding its conservation and restoration of ocean, coastal and Great Lakes Resources. Specifically, NOAA is requesting actions it should consider taking to support tribal, state and local governments, in addition to non-governmental entities to advance their efforts to conserve and restore U.S. lands and waters. NACo previously sent a letter to President Biden detailing county concerns and priorities in the implementation of America the Beautiful. The initial report, released in May, outlines the following eight principles that will guide the focus of this initiative:

- Pursue a collaborative and inclusive approach to conservation.
- Conserve America's lands and waters for the benefit of all people.
- Support locally led and locally designed conservation efforts.
- Honor tribal sovereignty and support the priorities of tribal nations.
- Pursue conservation and restoration approaches that create jobs and support healthy communities.
- Honor private property rights and support the voluntary stewardship efforts of private landowners and fishers.
- Use science as a guide.
- Build on existing tools and strategies with an emphasis on flexibility and adaptive approaches.
